Compact Shelving Update

Things are going great on the first floor! We expect the east side of the floor to open the first week of November. Work will continue on the west side as we start to move books down from the 2nd floor to the 1st floor.

When we are done with this project, the 1st floor is going to look great! New, brighter lights have been added and we are finally getting rid of the old orange carpet.

Remember, if you need a book from the 1st floor, call numbers A-K, please ask for it at the Circulation Desk on the 4th floor.

They will go get it for you. Books are being pulled every 2 hours from 8am until 6pm.

You Can Help Shape the Library of 2015

The library is looking undergraduate students for a creative inquiry team. We are starting a 3-year study of what Clemson University's library should become. You can help shape the library of 2015!

Skill building (resume-building) work will include:

- survey design, collection and analysis
- other opinion sampling and “product testing”
- space planning and usability
- interior design
- project management
- marketing communication
- information research and report writing
- presentations to campus and national audiences

If you are interested in being on this creative inquiry team, please contact Peggy Tyler (ptyler@clemson.edu)

New Exhibits in Cooper

There are two new exhibits in the lobby of Cooper Library.

The one in the tall cases is all about Clemson football. It celebrates the 50th anniversary of the “Big Thursday” game against the University of South Carolina.

The other exhibit is in the flat cases in front of the Circulation Desk. It's all about the new Thomas Green Clemson biography.
